THE GREAT WALL

THE NEW YORK TIMES

FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1942

Second Fiftieth Day

The second fiftieth day of the war has brought a new phase of the struggle. The Axis powers, in their desperate attempt to win a quick victory, have launched a series of attacks on the Allied forces. The Allies, however, have shown remarkable resilience and have managed to repel these attacks. The battle of the Atlantic has also seen a turning point, with the Allies gaining the upper hand in the struggle against the U-boat fleet. The air war has continued to be a fierce contest, with both sides claiming significant victories. The ground forces have also been engaged in several major battles, with the Allies showing a clear advantage in terms of resources and strategy. The war is now entering a critical phase, and the outcome will determine the fate of the world.
